The outcomes of the discussion are as follows.

The patient had under gone emergency LSCS with B/L tubal Ligation at LBS Hospital on 21/11/2020.

Emergency LSCS was done in view of PIH with oligohydramnious and meconium stained liquor and was necessary to save the mother and foetus. B/L tubal ligation was done along with LSCS after proper consent from patient. The probable cause of death was pulmonary embolism.

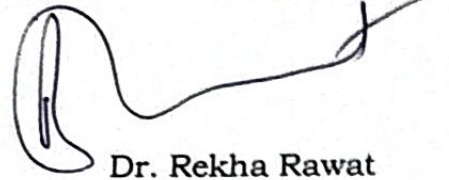

All sterilization standards were followed during sterilization.

Pulmonary Embolism may be a complication of any major or minor surgery. Ligation was done with caesarean section so it is difficult to comment clearly what lead to pulmonary embolism.

Case may be sent to SISC for further review.
